OPPORTUNITY FOR SHIPPERS NOW

"What has happened to the freight traffic of the railways is strikingly indicated by statistics regarding the loading of freight cars within recent weeks," says the Railway Age in its current issue. "In October the number of carloads of freight loaded averaged about one million a week. The four weeks ending January 1, the average number of freight cars loaded weekly was 639,551. This represented a decline since the peak was reached in October of almost exactly one-third. As a result of this decline business the railways on January had a car surplus of 301,000, a this has been steadily increasing."

"The statistics regarding earnings and expenses in January are available, but the reduction of the total and net earnings which occurred coincidentally with this decline of one-third in freight movement will be shown, when the statistics are available, to have been very large.

"The statistics regarding car loadings show clearly that the country is not very generally taking advantage of the surplus railway capacity available to 'ship now.' For instance, many months ago the railroads complained that shippers could not get sufficient cars in which to ship their goods. The railroads might now have equal pertinence complain loudly that they cannot get enough freight cars with which to load their cars. The shortages cause heavy losses to business concerns that cannot afford goods when they want to, but surpluses likewise cause heavy losses to railroads when they cannot freight to haul in their cars.

"When there is another large shortage of cars, as in course of time there will be, it is to be hoped that those who could cause the shipment of freight now, but who are not doing so because prices or other conditions are unsatisfactory to them, will not forget the heavy period during which the railroads are suffering enormous losses because of the failure of those who could 'ship now' to do so."

WARNS GERMANS

Must be No Evasion of Indemnity and Disarmament Provisions and Monarchists Must be Kept Down.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Birmingham, Eng., Feb. 5.—
stern warning to Germany not to a—temp to evade the allies' demand for disarmament and war indemnity was sounded by Premier Lloyd-George a speech here today.
"The people are tired of ever thing having an atmosphere of war declared the premier. "Our answer to Germany is that the sword shall be sheathed for all time. Nothing will be done for politics."

will give the allied powers no feeling against Germany except the feeling they had the same Germany to deal with that treated treaties as scraps of paper." The allies are as united as ever in their purposes."

The premier declared that the lies are determined that Germany must disarm, despite the fact that Germany is threatened with "something like revolution."

He said the world could have positive assurance of lasting peace until there is disarmament.

Discussing the German attitude

"Mr. Simons, (the German foreign minister) was fair and reasonable on the Spa conference but there was an unconscious feeling that behind him were the men of 1914. We can hear their muttering drawing him

Simons's tones: "Which repre-
Germany—you or I?"
"Assumption of power by the ca-that provoked the war cannot be pmitted."

The first step in preventing the Gas and Electric Company from putting in effect the new gas rates fixed by the Public Service Commission of the Second District, or to make provision for reimbursing gas consumers if the new rates should not be sustained by the courts, was taken before Judge Rosch at this morning's special term of the supreme court at the court house in this city, when Mayor Canfield procured an order directing the Gas and Electric Company to show cause why an order should not be granted:

First.—Suspending the said order of the Public Service Commission pending the appeal which has been taken by the city as directed by resolution of the common council; or

Second—Directing the Gas and Electric Company to impound and retain all of such excess charges paid and collected pending the said appeal, under such terms and conditions as may be proper to protect the gas customers; or

Third—Directing the Gas and Electric Company to give a proper bond in the penal sum of $30,000, providing for the return to each customer of the excess paid in the event of the final reversal of the order of the Pub-

The order was granted on the affidavit of Mayor Canfield, who recites that the public service commission, second district, made an order on January 11 of this year, granting the Kinston Gas & Electric Company's application for increased rates for gas supplied to its customers in the city of Kingston. The rates existing prior to the order of the public service commission, and also the new rates as fixed by the commission are set forth in detail together with the commission's decision for a monthly service readiness to serve charge not in excess of 50 cents per customer. The increase in gas rates alone is about 60 per cent.

the March or May terms of that court. Mayor Canfield also stated that the main opinion was written by Commissioner Kellogg, in which it is stated that the maximum rate should be $1.60 net per thousand cubic feet, or ten cents less than the rate pro-

Among the reasons stated by Mayor Canfield in his affidavit on which the city of Kingston objected to the increased rates is that the Kingston Gas & Electric Company, entered into a contract with the city of Kingston on December 28, 1912 extending to March 1, 1923, which contract contained the provision that:

"It is further agreed that, during the term of this agreement the part of the first part shall not increase its existing schedule of rates now on file with the public service commission of the state of New York, for gas or electricity furnished the inhabitants of the city of Kingston."

The increased rates became effective January 17, and Mayor Caffery points out that the six month period for which the increased rates were specifically granted will almost entirely, if not entirely expire before a decision can be obtained from the court.

STATE INCOME TAX INFORMATION

New York state income taxpayers in Ulster county should file their returns with District Director J. De-Puy Hasbrouck at 515 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

Auditor: My employer during the year paid me an extra $180 for "supper money." Is this a gift or income?

Ans. Such amount is additional compensation and should be included in your income.

Nonresident: I am a member of business organizations which have clubs both within and without New York state. May I deduct the dues of these organizations in my New York state return?

Ans. No. Deductions to non-residents are restricted to those incurred in connection with their sources of income from New York state.

Principal: Some teachers have asked me if they are taxable on that part of their salary paid indirectly by the state through the local board.

Ans. Yes. Teachers in public, private or high schools are taxable on their income derived from all sources. You probably confused the state requirements with the exclusion of teachers' incomes under the federal statute.

Teacher: How shall I treat $400 which my employers paid to me in settlement of injuries received in their shops?

Ans. You should exclude it from your income. In New York state personal income tax return amounts received either by settlement or as the result of suit in the way of insurance or compensation for injuries are not taxable.

Uncasy: From my state salary of $3,000 the pension deductions yearly amount to $126. Upon what amount am I taxable—the total amount of the salary, or the salary less the pension deductions?

Ans. You should include in your income the entire amount of your salary, inclusive of income amounts deducted for the pension retirement system.

N. P. D.: I earn a stated salary each year and speculate a little in stocks and bonds. If I make a profit I know I must report it. If I lose may I deduct it from my other income?

Ans. Yes, if you are a resident you are entitled to deduct losses which you incurred in connection with the purchase or sale of securities.

B. & B.: X endorses a note for Y in 1919, which is renewed once in 1919 and once in 1920. In 1920 X is obliged to pay the note. On January 1, 1920, Y was probably solvent but did not have sufficient money to meet the note. Can X take any loss?

Ans. No; bad debts are not deductible unless facts are disclosed showing "that legal action to enforce payment would in all probability not result in the satisfaction of execution of a judgment."

A. E. B.: I am not married or the head of a family. My mother has an income sufficient for her needs and not sufficient to carry on the home where she lives. The deed of the home is in my name and I pay all the taxes and insurance. Am I entitled to any exemption for taxes, insurance and up-keep of the property?

Ans. You may deduct all amounts paid for taxes except those on account of local improvements. As you are not permitted to deduct any amounts expended for repair, insurance premiums in this case are personal expenses and not deductible.

Lieutenant: Is the amount of $250 which I receive as a commissioned officer in a local company in the Federalized National Guard exempt from taxation as being payment from the United States government?

Ans. Yes. H. B. D.: Shall I deduct the amount of a check that I shall soon send to the Presbyterian Board, New York city (for food and hospital care for the Chinese) from my income tax return in March 1922?

Ans. Yes, as such a disbursement was made out of your income for the year 1921 it is not a proper deduction until you file your return on or before April 15, 1922. Your return for 1920 is due on or before April 15, 1921.

New Perch for the Fisherman. A new sport followed to some extent along the Pacific coast is that of fishing from airships of the "Blimp" type. The fishermen ascend to a height where they can readily spot a school of fish and then they descend and drift along with the fish. Hovering over the water they pull in the fish as fast as they can throw over their lines.

SADDEST JOB

Official Comfortress" of Bellevue, who has given out 40,000 death certificates to sorrowing relatives during her years of service, will spend the rest of her life making things bright and cheerful for one fortunate man.

Telegraph to The Freeman. New York, Feb. 3.—She's had the saddest job in New York for all of 15 years, and has dispensed sympathy and good cheer to thousands in that time.

Now she's going to spend the rest of her life making things bright and cheerful for one fortunate man.

This is Miss Marion Sullivan, "official comfortress" of Bellevue Hospital, who, in her job of dispensing death certificates, has also taken advantage of the opportunity afforded by a sympathetic with bereaved ones, to give a human touch to the machinery of a great hospital.

Miss Sullivan is leaving soon to be married.

"I've really done nothing but my duty," demurred Miss Sullivan when asked her at Bellevue. "About a dozen people a day come here to get the certificates and they are sorrowful and sad—what can anyone do but try to comfort them?"

Sitting at her official desk, wearing a simple dark skirt, with blouse and a pale blue sweater that matches her eyes, Miss Sullivan looks like any girl in New York. I do know a few, but not so terribly many."

"People have asked me if I didn't get very much depressed. I don't. I feel that it is best for me to be as cheerful as possible and try to raise the spirits of the saddened relatives and friends who come to me," she said.

"Maybe some persons would get morbid in such a job, but I never allow myself to feel that way about it. I remember that it is my place to be pleased and consoling, even though I feel as sad about the case as the relatives do."

Picture the hospital death, that of the patient who dies in a ward. Screens are hastily drawn about the death bed. Soon the body is wheeled out into another part of the hospital. Everything is as done that there will be as little as possible to disturb adjoining patients. The procedure is somewhat similar in the case of the private room patient.

Relatives or friends, who have been notified to visit a dying patient, who witness the shuffling out of a life and the body's hurried departure from the hospital, have reached the depths of despair.

What effect would constant association with the saddened and heart-sick have upon a bright, happy young girl? That depends on the girl, is the obvious answer.

And that is the opinion of Miss Sullivan.

With the "saddest job in New York" she has managed to preserve a hearty laugh to greet the idea that she is heroic or anything of that sort.

"I feel rather sad about leaving Bellevue," she said, "rather than sad about anything connected with the job itself. Everyone has been so nice and cheerful here that I couldn't possibly not like the work."

"Isn't it funny that they say I 'know more undertakers than any girl in New York.' I do know a few, but not so terribly many."

FARMERS' WEEK
AT ITHACA

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 3.—The fourteenth annual gathering of farmers and their families at Ithaca, known as Farmers' Week at Cornell, is planned to give the newest facts in farming, homemaking and country life. The dates are February 14 to 19, inclusive.

Five thousand persons ordinarily attend the sessions, but this year the college is prepared for an even larger number because of the present interest of the farmer in the prices of farm products. In the reasons for those prices, and in the ways to stabilize prices at a level that will give adequate rewards for the farmers' investment, skill and labor.

The scope of Farmers' Week is indicated by the fact that 438 separate events are listed on the program; there are separate sessions for women, for rural teachers, for country papers, for community workers and for country churches. Several agricultural associations hold special sessions during the week.

Among the more prominent speakers are Dr. Galpin of Washington on the human side of farming; Ansbury P. Lever of the federal farm loan board on financing the farm; ex-Senator Henry M. Sage of Albany on the state's support of agriculture; and Charles H. Tuck, former commissioner of agriculture to Russia, on Russia in the Far East.

Everything is free, except one play written and produced by students, for which there is a nominal admission to defray expenses.

It is stated that a person can use the week for a concentrated course in any one subject, or can vary the subject matter from day to day or from hour to hour. Prospective visitors are asked to send in the college of agriculture at Ithaca for programs.

WALTON BILLS TO HELP THEATRES

Under the caption, "Taming the Ticket Speculator," an editorial in Friday's New York Herald said:

In the matter of theatre ticket speculation the legislature has set about doing what the aldermen tried but failed to do. One of Senator Walton's bills not only keeps the ticket speculator off the streets but prohibits him from soliciting from any refuge he may take in stores or hallways. It does not prevent him from renting a store and doing business in a quiet way, just as the best of the ticket brokers have been doing for years.

The second Walton bill is of even greater interest to the theatregoer. It forbids the sale of a ticket at an advance of more than 50 cents on the box office price. When the aldermen attempted to limit the speculator's gross profit to half a dollar their authority was denied in the courts; but the legislature has greater power in such matters.

Both bills are wise. The unbridled speculator was one of the pests of Broadway. He was aggressive, loud and sometimes insolent. His behavior gave the theatre district a black eye. His greed was such that persons from out of town remembered New York as a place where a ticket to a good show could not be had for less than twice the box office price. Fifty cents on a ticket is a fair profit. This has been proved by the continued prosperity of the brokers who recently ordinance or ordinance, have made 50 cents their standard profit.

The passage of these bills, which provide for licensing and have teeth in them, should help the business of the theatres. Broadway is largely supported by out of town patronage. When the visitor to New York knows that he can buy tickets at a fair price for any attraction which is not actually sold out there will be a greater attendance at plays. The practical speculator, who prowled where he pleased and charged all the could get, has been the cause of scaring a good many dollars away from the box offices.

NEW PALTZ CRIME.

Local Sleuth Looking For Stolen "Clio Sign."

New Paltz, Feb. 3.—The crime wave has hit New Paltz. A mystery surrounds the New Paltz Normal School, especially the young women who live at the "Clio" Sorority House near the school.

While the "Senior Prom" was in session last Saturday night in the school gymnasium, some person or persons stole the "Clio" sign from the front porch. It was a large Greek-lettered affair.

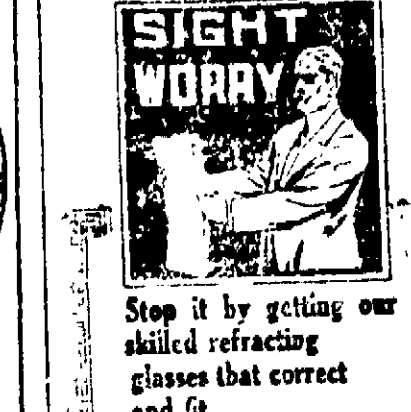

The local police force and the village sleuth—both of whom are working on the case and he expects that somebody will be landed within a short time.

had been their creed

What was the answer from the Other Side?

Maurice Tourneur's tribute—

"The most interesting subject that has ever been screened. The production of 'Earthbound' marks a distinct advance in the art of motion pictures."

George Loane Tucker's statement—

"There is a message in 'Earthbound' that the wide world is greatly and deeply interested in. I sincerely hope that every one who liked my production of 'The Miracle Man' will go to see 'Earthbound.'"

Gouverneur Morris deeply moved—

"That astounding drama which yesterday passed with unutterable dignity before our astounded eyes! Dignity, power, passion, drama—my heart almost stopped beating! No great work of art has ever held me more spellbound."

BASIL KING'S
powerful drama of the unseen world

TWO men built their lives on this creed:

"no God—no Sin—no Future Life!"

It flung one headlong into the future he scoffed at. It put the other on trial for his life.

Then the murdered man came back from his world of shadows. Back to his wife and the woman who had invited him to sin.

Passion still held him to the scenes of his transgression. Even in death he could not escape. He was earthbound!

How far away are the dead? Is the spirit held to earth by its desires?

Is there growth and progression—even after the shadowy barrier has been crossed?

Men and women, everywhere, stirred by intense personal feeling, have been asking—"Does the personality change with death? How long do the old interests go on?"

Basil King brings an intimate knowledge of men and women, of their wants and needs, to this great narrative. "Earthbound" deals with the emotional realities of men and women. It is a remarkable lifting of that veil which stands between this life and the next.

This production marks a new development in the art of telling stories through the motion picture. It is endowed with a power and human poignancy that can be found in no other form of art. No effort has been spared by the producer and the author to make "Earthbound" a story of great significance and great beauty. The year that it has taken in creation began a new era for the screen.

LUKE TREASURE ELUDES BANDITS

While Robbers Had City Turned Out, $500,000 in Gold, Silver and Currency Were Moved in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 3.—While bandit gangs were shooting down private citizens and daily risking their lives in hold-ups netting paltry sums of a few thousand dollars each during the unprecedented crime wave in St. Louis in November and December, more than $500,000 in gold, silver and currency was hauled through the streets under the very noses of notorious highwaymen. It has just been learned.

This huge amount, carried almost daily in quotas of $500,000 to $1,000,000, any load of which would have made the gunmen wealthy beyond their wildest dreams for the remainder of their lives, was transferred in motor trucks from the United States Sub-Treasury in the Post Office Building, at Eighth and Olive streets, to Union station, at a distance of fifteen blocks, through a section in which several times a week the boldest daylight payroll robberies were being staged, not to mention numerous "stick-ups" of private citizens. And never did the guard to any one of these rich hauls consist of more than three armed men.

The movement of this great wealth was made known by W. D. Vandiver, head of the Sub-Treasury, after completion of the transferring of the money to United States mints at San Francisco and Denver. The transfer was necessary in order that the St. Louis Sub-Treasury could be closed in accordance with an act of congress last May.

A branch of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank is preparing to occupy the quarters vacated by the Sub-Treasury. Vandiver, who has been in charge of the Sub-Treasury for the past seven years, is to retire to his country home near Columbia, Mo., and the twenty-five other employees of the Sub-Treasury are to be transferred to other branches of government service here and in other cities. Some of them had spent as many as twenty-five years in the local Sub-Treasury.

The St. Louis Sub-Treasury was established August 6, 1866, and because of unsuitable quarters the first sub-treasurer, it is said, found it necessary to nightly carry the currency on hand to his home and secure it until the following day.

There was $40,000,000 in the Sub-Treasury when Vandiver took charge and the amount on hand has at times reached as much as $15,000,000, the pinnacle being attained the past year.

Of this amount more than $40,000,000 was in gold. This was transferred to Union station by thirty-five motor trucks, each laden with one hundred thousand silver dollars, wended its way through the congested traffic to Union station. The day previous $15,000,000 in gold was transferred through the streets to the station and placed aboard trains.

Vandiver was much amused over having outwitted several gangs of bandits, each rated as desperate as the famous Jesse James outfit, which are believed to make their headquarters in St. Louis, but which have managed to evade all efforts of the authorities to run them down.

Audubon's Method.
No one, I think, paints in my method; I, who have never studied but by piecemeal, form my pictures according to my way of study. For instance, I am now working on a fox; and when satisfied with the truth of the position, I take my palette and work as rapidly as possible; the same with my birds; if practicable I finish the bird at one sitting—often. It is true, of 16 hours—so that I think they are correct, both in detail and composition.—Audubon.

Abstract.
The meaning of the noun abstract, in its most common use is that which separates or embodies the essential parts or features of some larger object or whole; a summary or epitome, or a book or document. The term of law, an abstract of title, means a document containing a brief and orderly statement of the original grant and subsequent conveyances and encumbrances relating to the title and ownership of real estate.

JAN. GIFTS TO CITY HOSPITAL

Gifts to the Kingston City Hospital during the month of January were as follows:

Old maids for Mrs. Sarah Livingston, donated shirts from "a friend," magazine from C. V. A. Decker and Miss Florence Tappen. Mrs. G. W. Palmer sent oranges, always such a welcome gift. None less welcome are cash contributions which included last month from Miss Sarah Reynolds $25, Miss Martha M. Schout $5, and Mrs. Nash from Hurley $1.

Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck sent some pictures for the new nurses building. Besides the regular sewing division of the auxiliary which meets on Thursdays at the City Hall, there are friends of the hospital who take work of this kind outside to do. The sewing classes at the High School have done a great deal and the people at Sahler's Sanitarium have donated table linen by hand. The Henrietta Wynkoop Guild make all the infants clothing for the hospital which is a greatly appreciated work. Mrs. Albert Carr does sewing at home.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. McClintock the librarian at Sahler's, duplicate books from the sanitarium library have come to the city hospital for the patients and formed the nucleus of a library for the institution.

"WELCOME STRANGER"

Teacher Polly of Prejudice, Aspects Lecturer.

"Welcome Stranger," which is played to capacity houses in New York was the subject of an interesting lecture last evening by Dr. Bernard M. Kaplan at Temple Emanuel. The theme centers around a Jewish merchant who was made unwelcome in a New England town but who eventually overcomes all prejudice and becomes the greatest benefactor of the community, making the town up-to-date, progressive and prosperous.

Dr. Kaplan said that the play teaches the folly and harm of prejudice. There was one man in that town who befriended Solomon, and the result was mutual benefit. "Tolerance, like virtue," said the rabbi, "has its own reward. Jew and non-Jew ought to see that play. They will learn to appreciate one another as brothers and friends, having common interests and the same destiny."

THE AVOCADO OR ALLIGATOR PEAR.

For many years the avocado has been brought to this country from Mexico, and in limited number has been in the markets of late from north to south. Even now the demand for the fruit at almost prohibitive prices, far exceeds the supply. Experimenters have tested to their satisfaction that this much prized fruit can be produced commercially in a wide area of territory and they are busy developing an industry that gives much promise. The avocado belongs to the laurel family and is a native of tropical and semi-tropical America. The tree is large and spreading, its leathery leaves of a spicy taste and odor. The bay tree, whose leaves are used largely for seasoning, belongs to the laurel family. The fruit of the avocado varies in shape from round to pear-shaped, with color from green to deep purple, weighing from a few ounces up to five pounds. It contains a large single seed around which is a thick creamy yellow and green-colored flesh, of delightful nutty flavor. The thick-skinned fruit is more often shipped, as it carries well. It has been said of the avocado that it is a class by itself. It is a natural combination of food and oil. It averages 904 calories, or heat units per pound, more than twice the maximum calories of the best fresh fruits. Its fuel value corresponds to 75 per cent of that of cereals. Its chief value however is in its fat content, which in some cases is as high as 26 to 30 per cent. The only fruit comparable to it is the olive and that is a processed fruit. The increase in population, making land too valuable merely for producing meat, makes the production of such a substitute worthy of consideration.

In Cuba the fruit is cut in halves and the seed removed. In the cavity of the fruit place half a dozen stuffed olives and pour over a lemon juice dressing slightly sweetened. Serve on lettuce leaf, a half fruit to each person, to be eaten with a spoon.

SCHOOL ATHLETES COMPETE FEB. 22

The grammar school athletic meet usually held at the Y. M. C. A. on New Year's Day, has been postponed this year to Washington's Birthday, February 22, and will be held at the "Y" on that day. The committee in charge, composed of N. A. Lillinger, T. A. Bridges, A. W. Baley, and Principals Garrison, Van Valkenburg and Meagher, have been working on this proposition for quite some time and it is expected that this year's meet will be the most successful ever conducted. There should be at least three hundred boy competitors from the various city schools.

The events selected are the same that were used last year, being the standing broad jump, the running high jump, chinling, and potato race. These are the events that each boy must take part in. In addition there are two events for team competition, being the tug of war and the relay potato race.

A large number of prizes are offered for the youthful athletes. There will be ribbons for first, second and third in each event. To the boy making the greatest number of points, A. W. Baley of the physical education department of the schools, will give a silver medal. The next three in order of total points will be given special ribbons. Then there is the large silver cup which is offered and to become permanent property when won three times. The schools that so far have won a leg on it are Schools 4 and 8. The latter now holds the cup and is determined to make a great effort to retain it again this year.

A line-up of capable, efficient officials have been selected to conduct the meet. This event is open to the public and inasmuch as the meet falls on a holiday it is expected that an enormous crowd will be present to encourage their young friends.

The voice of love has awakened one among New York's sixty-six victims of the sleeping sickness now causing apprehension among medical men. Subconscious knowledge of the nearness of her wedding date, physicians say, may have aided in breaking the month-long sleep of Miss Tetia Lehman when she heard the sound of her fiancé's voice, who said, as he sat by the bedside: "I know she will recover before the day for our wedding." The wedding was set for January 30, and Miss Lehman awakened on the 29th.

LABOR RULES COST ROADS MILLIONS

Public Directly Interested in Effort to Stop Drain on Carriers' Income.

BIG SUMS FOR WORK NOT DONE

Railroads Asking Labor Board to Abrogate Wasteful Agreements Made Under Federal Control.

"The entire country, its consumers, its farmers, its workmen, and even the railway employees themselves, are directly interested with the railroads in cutting down railway operating expenses."

This is the keynote of the case presented by the railroads to the United States Railroad Labor Board, now in session in Chicago.

The railroads have submitted evidence to the board to show why the National Agreements affecting railway shop labor should be abrogated, believing that this is a vitally important step in the process of reducing operating expenses.

This step is not only necessary to insure adequate earning power to the railroads, but will make possible an ultimate reduction in rates.

The agreements were made by the Railroad Administration just before the end of Federal control. The sum total of the rules and working conditions provided by the National Agreements have increased the operating expenses of the railroads by hundreds of millions, and have decreased the efficiency and output of the employees in other ways resulting in losses which cannot be calculated in dollars and cents.

For several weeks the railroads have been multiplying instances of the absurd and extravagant results of the labor rules fastened upon them by the National Agreements.

In one case cited before the board a machinist was paid 16½ hours' wages for work all performed within eight hours. This case illustrated the effect of the rule that for each "call" the worker is to be paid five hours' wages even if he works only ten minutes.

The case of a car repairer on the Virginian Railway, who was recently paid over $1,000 for services which were never rendered, and in addition the same amount of overtime as was made by his gang, was another example.

In connection with the rule that some but mechanics' work, the following was cited to indicate its unfairness:

Five Hours' Pay for 30 Minutes' Work.
The El Paso & Southwestern Railroad recently had an engine set out at Douglas, and about the time it was ready to go to its train it developed that a window light was broken in the cab. It was necessary for the foreman to call a carpenter to do the work that he could have performed himself in a few minutes. The train was delayed one hour and 30 minutes, and the employees called to do the work was paid five hours for work requiring 30 minutes.

The inefficiency created by inflexible application of the rules contained in the agreements in question was illustrated in the following actual case which recently occurred on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad:

"An engine was placed in the shops for certain repairs. Because of the provisions of the National Agreement, it was necessary that members of five crafts perform parts of this work; formerly, the entire operation was performed by the members of but two crafts."

$6,000,000 for Work Not Performed.
How the railroads of the country were compelled to pay almost $6,000,000 in the first six months of 1920 for service not rendered because of the effects of but one of the 182 rules included in the Shop Crafts National Agreement was shown in the testimony.

This punitive payment for work never performed was required by a clause in the National Agreement, which provides that when employees are required to check in and out on their own time they will be paid one hour extra at the close of each week.

The rigid classifications of labor, when taken in connection with the rule that requires that a man must have four years' experience before being employed to perform any of the work listed in them, result in paying rates applicable to men who are supposed to be fully qualified for work which does not require more than four years' experience.

To illustrate how the inflexibility of many of the rules now enforced operate to restrict the railroads of large sums for services which in the absence of these rules could be obtained for relatively moderate sums, evidence was laid before the Labor Board showing that three men who were employed at a small pumping station in Michigan, performing unskilled work, when classified under the rules, receive an average of pay amounting to more than the value of all the water pumped and current generated at this station.

The Chicago testimony contains literally hundreds of instances such as these, all supporting the contention of the railroads that the labor rules under which they have been forced to work are such as to prevent the "thrift, efficient and economical management" demanded by the Transportation Act.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift.

If you do not practice thrift, do not allow yourself to be fooled by the belief that when you become more prosperous you will then begin to save money.

Those who practice thrift do so regardless of all other circumstances. Their incomes may be modest and their savings be correspondingly small, but in some way they manage to save a little out of their earnings.

Experience has shown that as men advance in their earning capacity they made a corresponding advancement in their standards of living and their personal requirements. As a matter of fact there are many men in our large cities today earning big salaries who are not saving as much money as they did when they were struggling at the bottom of the ladder.

One of the great values of thrift is the power it gives to the will. The harder it is for one to save the greater is the mental and moral values resulting from these habits.

It always must be borne in mind that, while saving money does not constitute the sum total of thrift, it is a necessary foundation.

Mental. Money-saving has many kindred values. No matter how poor or how rich a man may be he cannot afford to get out of the habit of being a money saver. It has certain disciplinary values that are essential to every man's progress and success.

It has been the general experience of persons who saved systematically that opportunities for advancement come more rapidly than they had anticipated. Sometimes the possession of a small amount of ready money at the right time has laid the foundation of a successful business career. Many a man who has strengthened his character and his character and improved his efficiency through thrift has found himself swept forward to great success in his chosen line of work.

Do not deceive yourself on this matter of saving money. The very fact that you save, in spite of many obstacles which may be in your way, may be the very thing needed to round out your character and mental requirements for the accomplishment of great things.

Circulating the Scriptures.

The 1919 issues of the American Bible society were 3,752,900 volumes. The sum never sets on the representatives of this society, which asserts that some one is busy every hour of the day and every day of the year circulating the Scriptures. This total means that seven of men were issued every minute of every hour of every day of the year.

The issues of 1919 were the smallest since 1911; chiefly because of after war conditions. The average of annual issues for the last ten years has been over 5,000,000 volumes. For the period of the war, 1914-1919, it was over 8,500,000, which means that on an average 11 volumes of Scriptures were issued every minute of the years of the war by the American Bible society.

New Illustration.

Prof. Alexander Hiltner has invented a new illuminator for the microscope, whose special advantage is that it gives a very strong light upon the object examined, so that spaces and translucent bodies can be seen readily studied on transparent ones. The top of the object on the slide can be seen with all the variations of its surface. It is particularly valuable in testing samples of metals since it shows the pressure of blow holes and pits and much detail not hitherto visible. It is especially useful to test the experts since it shows the threads of a fabric from every angle and is also much appreciated by bacteriologists.

Monks' Action Ineffective.

The notion that a house hawk took his cure when angered by the work of the days of the wild hours, when fights between wild stallions were everyday affairs. When engaged in a fight the horse's natural instinct was to protect his most sensitive organ, his ears, from the cruel teeth of his opponent. With this end in view he would lay them out back along his neck, out of harm's way.

The elegant plea in both French and Russian to enter this big head may win the right to become an American for Alexander Kwarow, fourteen-year-old Russian swimmer. Alexander reached this country after many thrilling adventures. His mother and father were killed by Bolsheviks in Moscow. The boy made his way in Odessa and there joined a band of French soldiers. They took him to Constantinople. There he was befriended by an American naval officer, and then was born the longing to become an American. He stayed here on a steamer at 14 years of age in New York, and turned over to the authorities at 15½. His plea to remain here has resulted in national sentiment by New Yorkers to adopt the youth.

Real Sea Monster.

According to scientists of the Smithsonian Institute the second fish was captured at Miami, Fla., after a fight lasting 30 hours. Five harpoons and 120 bullets were required to subdue the monster. It was a whale shark and weighed 30,000 pounds. Its head alone weighed 1,200 pounds.

Cannibal's Odd Dueling Custom.

The Pangwas, a cannibal tribe of Africa, had an odd way of settling disputes with neighboring tribes. When they wished to settle a point they sent word to the tribe with which they had dispute, and the tribe selected 20 men, the Pangwas a similar number. These constituted the "armies" that were to settle the dispute. Both "armies" then repaired to an island in the river, set their canoes adrift, completely cutting themselves off from any assistance, and went to it. They hunted each other down through the trees and fought until all but one man was killed. The tribe to which this sole survivor belonged was the victor, and to it he belonged all the dead on the island. The victorious tribe then carried off the dead, friend and foe alike, and feasted for eight or ten days.

Soap From Clay.

Clay in the "coloidal form," when suitably prepared, may be satisfactorily substituted for a large proportion (up to about 50 per cent) of the fatty acids in soap. Matter may roughly be said to be in the "coloidal form" when it is in an extremely fine state of subdivision. As clay is cheap and may be readily obtained, the substitution of clay in this form for the fatty acids produces a notable reduction in cost. The clay is a real substitute for soap, and not an adulterant. Real solutions of coloidal clay soap form jellies on cooling and then this soap not only resists ordinary soap in appearance, but in cleaning properties it is said to be even better than pure soap. The advantages of this interesting discovery will be pointed out with interest. Discovery, London.

WARNS AGAINST FOREIGN HUBBY

Mme. Tartoue Hopes American Girls Will Profit by Her Unfortunate Experience.

WIFE OF PORTRAIT PAINTER

Says European Men Are Not Brought Up With the Ideals of Marriage and Womanhood That American Men Are.

New York.—"If American girls who are contemplating marriage with foreigners will only listen to me and take warning from my unfortunate experience with a distinguished foreigner, to whom I gave my love and devotion, I will feel repaid in a measure for the ordeal through which I have passed and the humiliation I must now endure."

"Men from the continental European countries are not brought up with ideals of marriage and womanhood which American girls are taught to believe American men have. They make bad husbands for an American girl, and my advice to girls is to pick out an American for a husband."

That is what Mme. Pierre Tartoue, wife of the noted portrait painter, said in discussing her marriage and her suit for separation last started.

M. Tartoue is said to be in the Adirondacks. His studio is said to have been sublet to Rene Van Lennep, a friend.

Since Mme. Tartoue departed from her home over a month ago in the middle of the night, following a series of alleged sensational incidents in and near the studio, she has been living in seclusion with her mother, Mrs. H. Bengue Barnett.

Tells of Persecution.

Light on the nature of her disagreement with her husband was shed by Mme. Tartoue during her interview. She said:

"The persecution to which I was subjected by two elderly women will be made public during the trial."

"I lent myself to Pierre for publicity purposes much against my own inclination. He told me it would help him."

"I lent him money as well, as most American girls who marry foreigners find they are obliged to do for the sake of preserving their homes and saving their husbands from financial difficulties. My family and friends have reason to know intimate details concerning these financial transactions."

"I sacrificed myself on the altar of Pierre's art and I soon discovered he did not appreciate it. This is my attitude toward my husband. I have no animosity in my heart, only pity."

"After I was Pierre's wife he constantly told me I was no longer an American woman. He said I was under the French law, because I had married a French citizen. He told me I would have to bear half the expense of our establishment and that French women had no rights."

Helped in His Work.

"Pierre told me he was madly in love with me. I was madly in love with him. He told me and told my friends I was the most beautiful American girl. He told me I was an inspiration to him in his art. Believing implicitly in him and in his genius, I helped him every way I could. I even posed for him for portraits of myself, and I posed for the hands and gloves of some of his best portraits. Among those were the portraits he painted last year of Mrs. Frederick Brooks of New York, Mrs. Harold Brooks and Miss Ruth Sheehy of Buffalo."

"After he had painted a portrait of me with my wedding veil over my head, some critics told him it was one of the best pieces of work he had ever done. When he painted the 'God of Happiness,' which now hangs in the Alfred I. du Pont house on Long Island, I helped him with my suggestions."

"I found, however, that Pierre did not appreciate me. With my own hands I used to cook him little studio dinners so that at the end of the day, when he was tired out from painting, he would not have to go out for dinner. Those were halcyon days when Pierre and I were by ourselves night after night in our studio. I could hardly believe the thing was real. It was so ideal."

"We were married October 14, 1919, and I will never forget the promises he made that day, for he did not keep a single one of them."

Infant Sent to Convent.

Kennebec, S. D.—The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Coyne of this place has gained a unique distinction. The baby is only three weeks old but she was born with one tooth. Now is that all. Within a week after her birth it was found necessary to extract the tooth. So Miss Coyne may boast of not only having been born with a tooth but of having had dental attention before she was a week old.

Will Take "Gag" Commas in School.

Chickadee.—A "gag" comma will be taken by the students of a Chickadee high school. Members of the literary club will secure the walls of the building and collect all the barbs under the microscope and study the species that they are learning.

THE MEETING.

When the pigs had nothing to do in the shed and when there was nothing around to eat and they had slept enough they grunted and squealed at each other.

"It was different when it was summer and we were out-of-doors for we could always look about in the mud in the hope that there would be something else," said Grandfather Porky.

"But here it is different," said Miss Ham.

"So they had decided that the best thing they could talk about was the food they had had and the food they were going to have."

"We'll call our talks meetings," said Grandfather Porky, "which is a superior and fine way of speaking. And we will have meetings when we don't have food."

"That will be the way we will do." And all the pigs agreed that that was the best way to do.

So they were holding a meeting in the shed on a cold winter day.

Porky Pig was the president, who called the meeting to order, and Brother Bacon was the chairman and Sammy Sausage the secretary and the other pigs were the members of the committee who always attended the meeting.

They didn't always know what each one was supposed to do, but when they didn't know they went ahead as though they did and none of them knew if they made mistakes or not, so it was quite all right.

"I call the meeting to order," said Grandfather Porky Pig, on this cold winter's day.

He pounded on a wooden bucket to his winter home, using his little twisted tail to pound with.

"And," he turned to Sammy Sausage, "the secretary will now read the minutes of the last meeting."

"What are minutes?" interrupted a member of the committee.

"Mr. Secretary," said Porky Pig, "there is a question which one of our members wishes to ask and will you propose the motion that it should be answered?"

"All those in favor of having the question answered," said Sammy Sausage, "will say 'Aye.'"

All the pigs squealed "Aye."

"Those who oppose say 'Nay.'"

There was not a sound. So Sammy said in a shrill, squeaking voice: "The Ayes have it."

"Then," said Grandfather Porky, "in reading over the minutes of the last meeting you will find that we explained what was meant by the word minutes.

"Just read the minutes over and we will all understand."

So Sammy Sausage, making a bow to Grandfather Porky Pig and another to Brother Bacon, said: "Ladies and gentlemen are not present, therefore allow me to address this meeting of squealing, grunting, greedy pigs, of which I myself have the honor to be a part."

"I will read the minutes of the last meeting and at the first part of the last meeting some one asked what minutes are."

"But I will go back and read all of my minutes. The meeting was called to order a week ago Thursday when there was no food and when the pigs had all slept enough and when there was nothing else to do."

"Grandfather Porky Pig called the meeting to order and Brother Bacon acted as the chairman and I, Sammy Sausage, as the secretary."

"After the meeting was called to order the minutes of the last meeting were read, which together with an explanation of what minutes were, took up all the time of the meeting and it was voted as a successful meeting and the motion was seconded."

"Minutes, as we said in the last meeting, were reports of what happened always at the meeting before. And at the time they were duly understood."

So Sammy Sausage went on reading the minutes of the last meeting, how they had spent practically all their time reading the minutes of the meeting before so that any members not present at the meeting before would know what had happened."

And when the meeting was over on this day they had simply read the minutes of the meeting before and that was all, but Porky Pig said it was quite right, for a real meeting wasn't a real meeting unless they read up all their time in reading what had happened at the meeting before!

The FRANKLIN

Correct principles at the beginning bring the best results in the end. This is well illustrated by the performance of the Franklin Car today.

The fundamentals of satisfactory motoring are light weight, flexibility and direct air cooling. These were original principles with the Franklin Car nineteen years ago. Today they give comfort, economy and long life, or, expressed another way--

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires
50% slower yearly depreciation.

John Wisniewski, thirteen years old, a veteran of two wars, possessor of a decoration for valor and boasting four wounds received in action, must return to school. And worst of all, John must return to the class, second grade, in a New York, N. Y., school, which he left four years ago to go to war. He made his way to the waterfront and there made the acquaintance of two other youngsters, John Urczinski, eight, and Roman Szedrowski, eleven. They watched with interest the embarkation of Polish-American troops for the war zone. They decided to join the troops and boarded the transport. Then began the thrilling adventures of the three tiny "Jersey Musketeers," which cost Urczinski and Szedrowski their lives. The youngsters received their baptism of fire on the Champagne. Urczinski was killed there, and Szedrowski died in the Soviet drive at Warsaw.

Long Hours in China.

The Chinese servant in wonderfully honest and efficient, says a correspondent, working from China. He commences work early in the morning and seldom gets to bed before late at night. Moreover, he gets to sleep out of half day off once a week. If nature had not endowed him with a plethora of whom, such and grandmothers, who are willing enough to be at command when they are needed, the concept of his monotonous life would be too terrible to contemplate. Although the Chinese boy is no plaster saint, and in the grand old busy world of London, the average Chinese boy is scarcely honest.

Several hundred children of Winothka, Ill., made merry on the ice of the lake of the Indian Hill Country Club at a recent fancy costume ice carnival. The photo shows Jane Rogers and Jack Davies, who both carried off costume prizes.

Mysterious Concerning Melting Pot.

Certain metals, which melt only at rather high temperatures, may be mixed with each other in certain proportions and will then melt at very low temperatures. That is how some solders are made. Tin melts at 449.6 degrees Fahrenheit, lead at 601 degrees Fahrenheit, bismuth at 544.4 degrees Fahrenheit, and cadmium at 321 degrees Fahrenheit. But if you mix eight parts of bismuth with five parts of lead and three parts of tin (by weight), the alloy will melt in boiling water (212 degrees Fahrenheit). If you mix six parts of bismuth and two parts of cadmium, it will melt in 154 degrees Fahrenheit. And if you want any alloy that will melt at 140 degrees, you have only to mix four parts of tin, eight parts of lead, fifteen parts of bismuth and three parts of cadmium.

Indignant Speech.

The little shoe shop was hot and overcrowded, and the woman had to wait in line to be waited on. Just ahead of her a voluble lady was discussing the subject of a suitable costume and illustrating her lecture by a small, high-heeled shoe she had picked up from the counter. "Now just look at that," she said, scornfully. "It was never made for any human foot. No sane woman would dream of wearing it." And she glanced right, firmly at her own No. 7 cornucopia. "You can imagine, if you please, how hot it was. For if you'll permit me to take the one you have, I'll get Joe to swap me my pair." And the lady with the lecture in purple who reached for the offending pump added a bit emphatically: "The old man enough to know my own when I see them."—New York Evening Sun.

Good Shuts.

Could scarcely the composition of the "Good Shuts" as you likely will be known to most people. A man of two has been in a mysterious condition of Southern distress almost dead for two of these present the reader has had news. The composer said the manufacture could not be made to be made.
